About the Artists

David Glover, conductor

David Glover served as Associate Conductor of the North Carolina Symphony from 2014-2018 and has frequently returned as a guest conductor for selected Summerfest, Pops, and Education concerts.

David Glover is Music Director of the Lynchburg Symphony Orchestra and appears regularly as a guest conductor with orchestras across the United States. Recent engagements have included return performances with the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra and debut appearances with the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra and Symphony of Northwest Arkansas (SoNA). Prior to his appointment in North Carolina, he served as Assistant Conductor of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Beyond his work with professional orchestras, Glover is Artistic Director of Triangle Youth Music in Raleigh, North Carolina, where he oversees ten ensembles serving more than 400 young musicians and conducts the organization's flagship ensemble, the Triangle Youth Philharmonic. He is equally passionate about introducing young audiences to orchestral music, having conducted education concerts for more than 250,000 elementary school students.

Glover earned violin performance degrees from the University of Georgia and Boston University and a master's degree in orchestral conducting at Indiana University. He lives in Cary, North Carolina, with his wife, Emily, a violinist with the North Carolina Symphony, and their daughter, Maia.

Taylor Troyer, vocalist

Taylor Troyer has previously appeared with the North Carolina Symphony in Patriotic Pops concerts throughout the summer of 2026 and has led audiences in singing at statewide Holiday Pops concerts in 2023, 2024, and 2025.

Whether she is appearing on the concert or operatic stage, American-born soprano Taylor Troyer has established herself across genres such as opera, oratorio, musical theater, and jazz. Originally from southeast Iowa, she received her bachelor's degree in vocal performance from Iowa State University, where she studied with mezzo-soprano Mary Creswell, and her master's degree in vocal performance from Carnegie Mellon University, under the instruction of soprano Maria Spacagna. She has also studied with Djordje Nesic, Jodi Goble, and Mark Carver.

Her voice has been heard throughout the United States and Europe in programs ranging from Strauss, to Mozart, to Britten. Troyer made her international debut in Belgrade, Serbia as Danica in the Serbian premiere of Ana Sokolović's Svadba (2019). She has most recently appeared with the North Carolina Master Chorale as the soprano soloist in Dvořák's Te Deum and Brahms' Ein deutsches Requiem (2026).

Troyer resides in Raleigh, NC, and sings regularly with the choirs of Christ Church on Capitol Square, under the direction of David Jernigan, and the North Carolina Master Chorale, under the direction of Alfred Sturgis. She is also a teacher of voice and piano, and maintains a private studio in Raleigh with students of all ages.

Named musician chairs are made possible through very meaningful gifts to the Symphony's endowment. As such, these donor families are also members of the Lamar Stringfield Society.

All string players rotate stands on a periodic basis in each section with the exception of titled players: Principals, Associate Principals, and Assistant Principals.

The North Carolina Symphony is a member of the League of American Orchestras and the International Conference of Symphony and Opera Musicians.

The North Carolina Master Chorale is the Resident Chorus of the North Carolina Symphony.

The North Carolina Symphony Foundation gratefully acknowledges the generous gift of the Lupot violin from Arnold and Zena† Lerman.
