

VISITING THE NORTH CAROLINA SYMPHONY THE EDUCATION CONCERT

MEYMANDI CONCERT HALL

Martin Marietta Center for the Performing Arts

I am going to Meymandi Concert Hall in Raleigh.

Meymandi Concert Hall is where the North Carolina Symphony performs musical concerts.

ARRIVAL

I will see a lot of construction and might even see people working across the street.

The construction may be noisy when I walk by it.

ARRIVAL

If I ride a bus to the concert, my bus will drop me off next to the auditorium.

I can listen and follow directions from the adults in charge to get safely around to the front doors.

SECURITY

The security staff will greet me at the door.

I can walk through the metal detectors and meet my group on the other side.

LOBBY

I will enter a big lobby before the concert.

The lobby may be crowded and noisy.

USHERS

The ushers will help me find my seat!

ESCALATOR/STAIRS

I might need to go up or down the escalator, elevator, or stairs to get to my seat.

I can hold the handrail with one hand as I go down so that I stay safe!

On the escalator, I can stand on my step and wait to walk until I have reached the end.

RESTROOMS

The restrooms are located near the big stairs in the middle of the lobby.

After I have found my seat, an adult can walk with me to the bathroom if I need it before the concert starts.

RESTROOMS

If I have to go the bathroom, I can walk with an adult that I came with.

The sound of the flushing toilet can be loud, but it will only be for a short time.

THE CONDUCTOR

The conductor will guide me through the concert.

They may ask me to participate, and I can if I want to.

THE CONCERT

I can have a lot of fun at a concert with the North Carolina Symphony.

I can clap at the end of each song to show that I enjoyed it.

SING-ALONG

I can sing along to "The Longleaf Pine" with the other kids.

Before the sing-along, there may be kids playing instruments.

DISMISSAL

When the concert is over, I can wait for instructions on how to leave safely with my group.

I may need to wait a few minutes, so I can talk quietly with the people around me about the concert until it is my turn to leave.

LEAVING

When it is my turn to leave, I can walk with my group.

I can hold the handrails if I am walking on the stairs or taking escalator.

There may be a lot of other kids in the lobby and outside, so I can stay close to my group.
